

BOB TERZUOLA STARMATE C55G

Nearly twenty years of experience is reflected in Bob Terzuola's newest collaboration with Spyderco. The hollow-ground modified clip-point blade includes a top swedge and bears his trademark logo, a dragon-head drawing of Etz'Nab (the Mayan god of flint tools and edged weapons). The slim handle is made of premium black G-10 for strength and positive grip. It is slightly enlarged at the rear and incorporates a Linerlock with precision ball bearing detent to secure the blade open and closed. Powerful yet incredibly lightweight, this utility tool serves a broad user base.

TIM ZOWADA C56

Metallurgist and damascus steel expert Tim Zowada has been crafting custom knives since 1982. Experience and execution differentiate this Spyderco/Zowada collaboration. The spearpoint-style blade incorporates a significant swedge (which is hollow-ground like the blade). The opening hole is modest, advancing a tapered look that continues into the handle. Bead-blasted black linen Micarta gives the comfortable handle a matte finish. A Linerlock and a pocket clip complete the design of this prime folding tool. Limited Quantities: Availability based on demand.

D'ALTON HOLDER TOAD C57

Past president and long-time member of the Knifemakers' Guild, D'Alton Holder is known worldwide for his contributions to the cutlery industry. His personal flair pervades this custom collaboration effort, the smallest CLIPIT Spyderco offers. The satin-finished handle is made of lightweight Almite-coated aluminum for durability and scratch resistance. The Linerlock boasts surprising strength, and the pocket clip doubles as a money clip. With a drop-point style blade, this compact yet stout utility tool carries as much cutting power as a full-sized folder. Limited Quantities: Availability based on demand.

JD SMITH C58BM

Master Bladesmith and member of the Knifemakers' Guild, J.D. Smith combines form with function in his first collaboration with Spyderco. He patterned this design after one of his own custom tactical pieces, incorporating a clip-point blade with a lower profile opening hole. The ergonomic handle perpetuates the streamlined look, with lightweight black Micarta scales that feature a satin-luster finish. Handle expansion at the pivot pin creates a choil and finger guard for exceptional cutting control. A valuable collectible, this folder is also a sensible size for daily carry. Limited Quantities: Availability based on demand.
